

Undergraduate and Graduate Education
In Trauma Psychology

Undergraduate and Graduate Education. The following list includes undergraduate and graduate psychology programs with either program emphasis and/or faculty expertise in trauma psychology.

The table indicates whether graduate programs are APA accredited or provide training for undergraduates and/or masters only. When available on the web, we have included examples of relevant faculty's interests.

Additional information on APA accreditation and accredited programs is available at <http://www.apa.org/ed/accreditation/doctoral.html>.

Updates. This list was compiled based on a series of web searches. We look forward to incorporating this list to include additional sites and faculty. To help us expand this list and keep it current, please send updates, additions or corrections to Anne DePrince at [adeprince\[at\]du\[dot\]edu](mailto:adeprince[at]du[dot]edu).

Predoctoral Internship and Postdoctoral Training. For information on APA-accredited predoctoral internship and postdoctoral training sites, please consult the Association of Psychology Postdoctoral and Internships Centers at <http://www.appic.org/>. APPIC allows users to search sites using key words (e.g., child abuse, veteran) that will assist in identifying internships and postdoctoral placements with trauma-related training opportunities.
